

Drawing Mammal Activity — A good way to learn about mammals is to draw them. On a blank piece of paper use the following guide to draw a gray squirrel. The gray squirrel has a bushy tail with white-tipped hairs around the border. It has large rounded eyes and holds its tail up. It can be found in hardwood forests that contain nut trees.

Drawing Mammal Activity — A good way to learn about mammals is to draw them. On a blank piece of paper use the following guide to draw a deer mouse. The deer mouse has big eyes and ears for its small body size. Like many rodents it often sits on its haunches and holds food in its front paws to eat. It has a bicolored tail, dark on top and lighter underneath.
